The screenshot shows the FromThePage website interface for a project titled "Local Draft Board Records". The page features a navigation bar with the FromThePage logo and a "Find A Project" link. Below the navigation bar, there is a title "Local Draft Board Records" and a set of tabs: "Overview" (selected), "Statistics", "Subjects", "Collaborators", "Settings", "Export", "Add Work", and "Works List". The main content area is titled "About" and includes a small image of a historical poster that reads "STOP-LOOK-LISTEN VOLUNTEER ENLISTMENTS NOW OPEN FOR U.S. ARMY ENLIST TODAY OPEN DAY AND NIGHT". To the right of the poster, there are sections for "About the TranscribeNC Project" (describing lists compiled by local county draft boards in North Carolina during WWI) and "How to Help Transcribe Documents" (explaining transcription conventions). On the far right, there is a user profile section indicating the project is "Owned by State Arc" and a search bar with the text "Search in coll".

About

About the TranscribeNC Project

Colonial Court Records contain information regarding the court records of North Carolina during the colonial period (late 1600s through the 1700s) when the colony was controlled by the lords proprietors and later the crown.

How to Help Transcribe Documents

The transcription conventions, or "rules," are located at the bottom of every page in the transcription view.

Transcription Conventions

- Spelling: Use original spelling if possible.
- Capitalization: Modernize for readability
- Punctuation: Add modern periods, but don't add punctuation like commas and apostrophes.
- Line Breaks: Hit `return` once after each line ends. Two returns indicate a new paragraph, which is usually indentation following the preceding sentence in the original. The times at the end of each entry should get their own paragraph, since the software does not support indentation in the transcriptions.
- Illegible text: Indicate illegible readings in single square brackets: `[p?]`

A single newline indicates a line-break in the original document, and will not appear as a break in the text in some views or exports. Two newlines indicate a paragraph, and will appear as a paragraph break in all views.

"Autolink" will suggest subjects certain words could be linked to or you can use double braces to link subjects. `[[Jane Doe]]` will link the text "Jane Doe" to the subject Jane Doe, while `[[Jane Doe|Jane]]` will link the text "Jane" to the subject Jane Doe. We recommend that linking be left to an editor after the initial transcription is made.
